BRITISH SMASH ASSAULT SOUTH OF TOBRUK AREA

Cairo Authorities Claim Situation In Desert War Satisfactory

ROMMEL'S GOAL STATED

American-Made Equipment In Front Lines; Observers Watch Progress

By GEORGE LAIT
CAIRO, May 29 — An axis thrust south of El Adem, 30 miles below Tobruk, has been smashed by British armored forces and advance units along the northern sector of the 50-mile desert front driven off, the middle east high command said today.

Military quarters said that the situation is "satisfactory from our viewpoint."

One source of encouragement was seen in the fact that the enemy is tending to split his forces. Two hundred and fifty axis tanks, mostly German, were involved in the first day's sweep toward Bir Hacheim.

There was little doubt in Cairo today that the thrust of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is the beginning of a strong offensive designed to smash British control in Libya and drive eastward to the Suez canal. The fighting on the scorched desert sands under a broiling sun is described now as terrific but the full fury of battle is yet to come.

The campaign presently still is in the "sapping stage," with both sides feeling out the strength of the other.

U. S. Experts There

United States military experts in the front lines closely observed the results of the initial engagements to determine the worth of new standardized equipment sent into Libya. American-made war machines now participating in the fighting include tank units and guns as well as aircraft.

The American airplanes at the front are estimated to consist of a large percentage of all the craft in the middle east now being used by the Royal Air Force.

While imperial troops operate the American-made machines United States service corps men are engaged in keeping them in repair at maintenance depots.

Heavy fighting was reported continuing with tank crashing against tank and British air forces pounding at the advancing German and Italian columns.

Considerable damage was done to axis mechanized units by air action.

Letters in the suitcase indicated he had lived for awhile in Tulsa, Okla., and that he had tried unsuccessfully to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force. In the baggage was a release from a Tulsa draft board.

Curt Martens, resident secretary of a downtown YMCA where Steele had been staying, identified the body, and commented:

"The boy lived at the Y for about two weeks before leaving May 15. He had been rejected by the Canadian Air Force and was determined to get in somehow."

"Steele figured that if he could get his baggage to Canada and swim the border, he could enlist under an assumed name and 'do his duty.' I tried to tell him it was dangerous and the water was cold and dirty but he wouldn't listen."

In Tulsa, Sidney L. Lazarus, a cousin, said Steele had been missing about three weeks and had left ostensibly to join the U. S. Army Air Corps to "right the wrong that is being done."

Fugitive from Germany Drowns Swimming River To Join Canadian Army

DETROIT, May 29 — The body of a man found in the Detroit river was that of Peter William Steele, 20, a refugee from Germany who attempted to swim the river to Canada so he might enlist in the Canadian army and fight the Nazis, FBI agents disclosed today.

FBI agents said the youth had managed to send his suitcase to a Windsor, Ont., bus station and that he intended to

CITY'S MEMORIAL DAY EVENT WILL START AT 9:30

With good weather predicted, officials in charge of Circleville's Memorial Day celebration anticipate one of the best events in many years.

The program will begin with a parade Saturday morning at 9:30 and will be followed by an address at Forest cemetery, and grave decoration in Forest and St. Joseph's cemeteries.

All local civic groups are taking part in the event with the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, high school pupils and many others scheduled to appear in the parade.

Rural communities will also observe the services in their respective cemeteries.

James Shea, commander of Howard Hall post, American Legion, Friday urged all war veterans of Circleville and Pickaway county to join in Saturday's mammoth parade.

"Whether you are a member of the Legion or the Veterans' of Foreign Wars, or whether you are affiliated with no organization, makes no difference. Every war veteran should join in the parade," Shea said.

Veterans are asked to report at Memorial hall at 9 a. m., the parade moving half an hour later.

Wayne township scarlet fever cases continued to mount Friday with another home quarantined by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner. The new case was reported to be Rose Mae Cleveland, 12, daughter of Goldie Cleveland.

Request For Legislation Awaited; Reynolds Says Bill Not Yet Drawn

FAMILY STATUTE VIEWED

Military Affairs Leaders Expect 18-19 Decision In Next Month

WASHINGTON, May 29—Congressional leaders in military affairs predicted today that the Army may soon make its request for legislation authorizing induction of 18 and 19 year old youths, with fair prospects that Congress will reverse its previous stand in opposition.

Consideration of the family allotment bill both in the Senate and House military affairs committees disclosed strong opposition to extensive drafting of older men with families, with the result that sentiment increased for calling young men if necessary.

Sen. Robert Reynolds (D) N. C., chairman of the Senate military affairs committee, denied reports that a bill for drafting 18 and 19 year old youths had been submitted to him, but predicted that legislation to this end will be enacted eventually.

"It is well known that men between the ages of 18 and 25 make the best soldiers," said Reynolds. "Action taken by Congress will rest largely, in my opinion, on what the military authorities who must fight the war have to say to us."

LONDON — The Stefani (Italian) news agency reported today, according to Reuters, that Premier Benito Mussolini made a "rousing" speech at the Rome military academy. But Stefani did not reveal what it Duce said.

SAN FRANCISCO — A pledge that Norway will join the United Nations with all her power if they open a second front in western Europe was left today by John Nygaardsvold, exiled prime minister of Norway. The first consideration of such an offensive would be sufficient ships to carry the attack, he emphasized.

WARDHA, India — Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of India's millions of Hindus, proclaimed today that he was contemplating a new movement. He failed to reveal what he had in mind but said that plans were "floating" in his brain that he might have to do something.

LONDON — Nine persons were killed and many injured when an express train collided with a freight train on the Karlsruhe-Strasbourg railway near Strasbourg, Germany, reports received in London said today.

AVIATOR JUMPS TO DEATH FROM ARMY AIRPLANE

BOISE, Idaho, May 29—Officials at Gowen field today announced that the body of an Army Air Force lieutenant who parachuted from a bomber over southwestern Idaho Wednesday "by mistake," had been found.

The body of Lt. V. L. Hall was found 42 miles southeast of Boise, near Mountain Home, Idaho, officials said. His home address was not immediately revealed.

Lt. Hall and two non-commissioned officers bailed out accidentally when they misinterpreted the pilot's signals, officials said.

In Utah, meantime, the search for Lt. James H. Payne of East St. Louis, Ill., pilot of a bomber who parachuted 10 miles north of Wendover before it crashed and burned, entered its 14th day.

RAILS LINKING FRANCE'S MAJOR CITIES BLASTED

LONDON, May 29—Traffic on the vital Nazi-held Rouen-Paris railway was disrupted today in a smashing assault by planes of the Royal Air Force fighter command.

Several railway engines were blasted and put out of action when the British craft strafed trains and airfields in German-occupied France, an official announcement said. One engine blew up.

The British planes also set fire to four ships in an enemy convoy discovered off the Dutch coast.

Other squadrons of fighter planes crossed the English channel during the day in the direction of Calais.

Jurors Ready To Study Fate Of Madeline Webb

NEW YORK, May 29—The fate of Madeline Webb and her two co-defendants will be placed in the hands of a general sessions jury some time today.

The 12 male jurors, who will decide whether the former Powers model, Eli Shonbrun, her lover, and John D. Cullen should go to the electric chair for the robbery-killing of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, will be given the case after Judge Jonah J. Goldstein completes his charge.

The wealthy 52-year-old Polish refugee was slain March 4 in the Hotel Sutton and unless the court rules otherwise, the jurors must either convict the trio on first degree murder charges or acquit them.

KENTUCKIAN, 32, HELD IN THEFT OF MEN'S GOODS

LEBANON, O., May 29 — Earl (Red) Lutes, 32-year-old Covington, Ky., man, was being held in Lebanon today on a burglary charge filed by Samuel R. Hyman, whose clothing store was robbed of $3,000 worth of apparel May 20.

Lutes was arrested in Covington Wednesday and taken from Cincinnati to Lebanon yesterday. The prisoner agreed to return from Kentucky without extradition proceedings.

According to Acting Detective Chief Patrick Hayes, Lutes confessed he took part in the burglary. The loot, Hayes said, was hauled in a stolen truck to Covington and later was sold in Chicago.

"Be careful if you try to knock off the Chicago fence, because a policeman is interested in the joint," Lutes was quoted by Hayes as saying.

Edward Beck Jr., and Robert Beck, both of Cincinnati, were charged with receiving stolen goods in connection with the case. Edward admitted buying some of the stolen clothing, detectives said, while Robert was said to have received several suits in payment for use of his car to haul the loot from Covington to Chicago.

I. W. Kinsey, Circleville, whose store was robbed recently, said Friday that he didn't know whether arrest of Lutes might help clear up the robbery of his clothing store.

DODGE'S WIDOW SEEKS DIVORCE FROM SURGEON

DETROIT, May 29—Mrs. Annie Laurie MacDonal Dodge Lange, widow of Danny Dodge, has filed suit for divorce against Dr. William A. Lange, Detroit plastic surgeon, it was disclosed today.

The suppressed bill of complaint was filed April 18, it was disclosed and Mrs. Lange's attorney, Paul A. Oren, refused to comment on the matter.

"There isn't anything that I can say," Oren declared.

It was only two days ago that Dr. Lange announced that he had received a captain's commission in the Army and would leave within two weeks to assume his military duties.

Mrs. Lange, who before she married Danny Dodge was a $15 a week telephone operator in a small Canadian town, inherited a substantial share of the Danny Dodge millions. He was killed in 1938 in an accident when he and his wife were honeymooning on Georgian bay.

Mrs. Lange married Dr. Lange in January, 1941 in Champaign, Ill. Since that time, they have lived in Detroit.

MORE PATENTS — Alien Property Custodian Leo T. Crowley plans a census of every patent now or heretofore owned in the U. S. by foreigners, preparatory to possible seizure of as many as 100,000 for use in war production.

MORE SUBMARINES—Workers producing the undersea craft in the yards of the Electric Boat company at New London, Conn., have voted overwhelmingly to forego vacations this year.

MORE PLANES — Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson reports that Uncle Sam's program for the production of 50,000 airplanes this year will be surpassed by a substantial margin.

MORE MICA—A war production board spokesman has told New England mica miners that the government is willing to raise its price for the mineral in order to bring back into operation unused mines in the area. Mica is essential for electrical devices vital to mechanized warfare.

OHIO BIRTHS UP, DEATHS DOWN FOR LAST YEAR

COLUMBUS, May 29 — Ohio's death rate decreased and the state's birth rate increased last year, State Health Director R. H. Markwith pointed out today as he released vital statistics for the two years.

The death rate in the cities remained stationary in 1940 and 1941 at 12.1 per thousand, but the rural rate dropped from 10.1 in 1940 to 9.6 last year, resulting in a decrease from 11.3 to 11.2 for the state as a whole.

During the year there were 77,525 deaths, as against 78,609 in 1940. The all-time high was 17.8 in 1918 and the low was 10.2 in 1938.

Births, which Dr. Markwith said always increase in wartime, totaled 122,456 for a rate of 17.7, against 114,895, a 16.7 rate, in 1940, and 109,271, a 14.7 rate, in 1939. Of last year's total, 62,775 were boys and 59,681 were girls.

More Gestapo Leaders Shot; Heydrich Attack Plot?; Six Czechs Slain

By JOHN E. LEE
LONDON, May 29—Rumors of a sweeping new purge of high-ranking Nazis flowed into London today coincident with announcement in Berlin that Adolf Hitler has taken over personal command of operations on the Kharkov front.

A Berlin broadcast said: "The Fuehrer has taken personal direction of strategic operations on the Kharkov front. "We look to his genius as a strategist to bring full victory."

Britons recalled with perhaps premature satisfaction, however, that when Hitler dismissed Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch as commander-in-chief of the German army last fall, the Nazis almost immediately began to retreat along the road to Moscow. The Fuehrer's "intuition" failed that time, and hopes were aroused immediately that it would fail again.

Undoubtedly for propaganda purposes, the Berlin radio this afternoon announced that the battle of Kharkov already has been "terminated," the inference being that Hitler had brought about immediate victory.

This, however, was at complete variance with dispatches from Moscow which reported the German and Russian armies locked in LONDON, May 29—Reuters said today in a dispatch from Stockholm that unconfirmed reports attributed to Soviet sources state that Russian troops have surrounded large numbers of German forces and wiped out two Romanian divisions on the Donets river sector of the Kharkov front.

One hundred Nazi tanks were said to have been destroyed in the same action.

furious combat. Berlin said that major operations had ceased and that mere mopping up operations against "dispersed remnants" of the Soviet army were under way.

A Moscow broadcast, quoting a Tass dispatch from Istanbul, said that among those arrested at Prague in the course of the purge included high officials of the puppet government headed by President Emil Hacha of Bohemia-Moravia, a number of Prague university professors and other public leaders.

Two hundred persons were reported arrested in the provinces to be held for execution unless the assassins of Reinhard (Hangman) Heydrich, Gestapo chief and "deputy protector" of Bohemia-Moravia, are apprehended.

Tass reported a sharp clash between police and the populace at Osek, 90 miles from Prague, in which the police used firearms. Casualties were not known.

Czech circles in London, commenting on the Tass report, said they understood "many thousands" had been arrested in Czechoslovakia, and that this was responsible for the Osek clash. The majority will be released tomorrow.

ECUADOR MELEE BROKEN UP BY TROOPS, POLICE

QUITO, Ecuador, May 29—Ten persons, including two sons of a former president of Ecuador, were held by Ecuadorian authorities today as ringleaders of a group of demonstrators who attempted to break into the government palace.

One carabinieri was killed and two others wounded in an hour-long melee last night in front of the palace.

The outbreak followed a lecture delivered by one of the sons of former President Gen. Don Leonidas Plaza at the Central university. At the conclusion of the talk the students gathered in crowds to demonstrate against the settlement arrived at in the century-old border dispute between Peru and Ecuador.

Firing broke out among the crowd when carabinieri sent warning shots over the heads of the demonstrators trying to break into the palace. Calm was restored after an hour but cavalry men and mounted police continued to patrol the neighborhood of the palace to prevent a new outbreak.

The wealthy 52-year-old Polish refugee was slain March 4 in the Hotel Sutton and unless the court rules otherwise, the jurors must either convict the trio on first degree murder charges or acquit them.

Pleading for the life of his client and friend, James G. Springer, 65-year-old Oklahoma jurist, described Madeline as a "victim of love" in his summation.

Quoting excerpts from the Bible and from works of Shakespeare, the philosophical smooth-talking counsel, who is engaged in his 85th murder trial, traced the early life and loves of the 25-year-old Oklahoma A. and M. honor student and how she came to New York City to seek fame and fortune.

Like Edward's He said her love for Shonbrun could be compared to that of the former King Edward and Wally Simpson and asked the jurors to send back this girl to her christian mother in Stillwater, Okla.

Madeline again exploded her fiery temperament as Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet summed up the case for the state.

"You filthy so-and-so. I don't want your kind of justice!" Madeline shouted at the prosecutor who described her as the cold-blooded "comeon" in the murder.

Grumet demanded the chair for the trio.

Shonbrun dramatically confessed Monday that the murder, which netted $2,000 in jewels, was committed by Murray Hirsch, his uncle, and himself. He absolved Madeline and Cullen, the "forgotten man" of the trial, with any participation in the killing.

Hirsch, who turned state's witness and testified that Madeline, Shonbrun and Cullen were in on the kill, was granted a separate trial.

Production Line Notes

Census Of Patents To Be Conducted For War Effort

By International News Service MORE PATENTS — Alien Property Custodian Leo T. Crowley plans a census of every patent now or heretofore owned in the U. S. by foreigners, preparatory to possible seizure of as many as 100,000 for use in war production.

MORE SUBMARINES — Workers producing the undersea craft in the yards of the Electric Boat company at New London, Conn., have voted overwhelmingly to forego vacations this year.

MORE PLANES — Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson reports that Uncle Sam's program for the production of 50,000 airplanes this year will be surpassed by a substantial margin.

MORE MICA — A war production board spokesman has told New England mica miners that the government is willing to raise its price for the mineral in order to bring back into operation unused mines in the area. Mica is essential for electrical devices vital to mechanized warfare.

OHIO BIRTHS UP, DEATHS DOWN FOR LAST YEAR

COLUMBUS, May 29 — Ohio's death rate decreased and the state's birth rate increased last year, State Health Director R. H. Markwith pointed out today as he released vital statistics for the two years.

The death rate in the cities remained stationary in 1940 and 1941 at 12.1 per thousand, but the rural rate dropped from 10.1 in 1940 to 9.6 last year, resulting in a decrease from 11.3 to 11.2 for the state as a whole.

During the year there were 77,525 deaths, as against 78,609 in 1940. The all-time high was 17.8 in 1918 and the low was 10.2 in 1938.

Births, which Dr. Markwith said always increase in wartime, totaled 122,456 for a rate of 17.7, against 114,895, a 16.7 rate, in 1940, and 109,271, a 14.7 rate, in 1939. Of last year's total, 62,775 were boys and 59,681 were girls.

PURGE RUMORS HEARD; HIMMLER GOES TO PRAGUE

Reports To London Claim Brauchitsch, Others Put In Prison Camps

GENERAL UNREST HINTED

More Gestapo Leaders Shot; Heydrich Attack Plot?; Six Czechs Slain

By JOHN E. LEE

LONDON, May 29—Rumors of a sweeping new purge of high-ranking Nazis flowed into London today coincident with announcement in Berlin that Adolf Hitler has taken over personal command of operations on the Kharkov front.

A Berlin broadcast said: "The Fuehrer has taken personal direction of strategic operations on the Kharkov front."

"We look to his genius as a strategist to bring full victory."

Britons recalled with perhaps premature satisfaction, however, that when Hitler dismissed Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch as commander-in-chief of the German army last fall, the Nazis almost immediately began to retreat along the road to Moscow. The Fuehrer's "intuition" failed that time, and hopes were aroused immediately that it would fail again.

Undoubtedly for propaganda purposes, the Berlin radio this afternoon announced that the battle of Kharkov already has been "terminated," the inference being that Hitler had brought about immediate victory.

This, however, was at complete variance with dispatches from Moscow which reported the German and Russian armies locked in LONDON, May 29—Reuters said today in a dispatch from Stockholm that unconfirmed reports attributed to Soviet sources state that Russian troops have surrounded large numbers of German forces and wiped out two Romanian divisions on the Donets river sector of the Kharkov front.

One hundred Nazi tanks were said to have been destroyed in the same action.

furious combat. Berlin said that major operations had ceased and that mere mopping up operations against "dispersed remnants" of the Soviet army were under way.

A Moscow broadcast, quoting a Tass dispatch from Istanbul, said that among those arrested at Prague in the course of the purge included high officials of the puppet government headed by President Emil Hacha of Bohemia-Moravia, a number of Prague university professors and other public leaders.

Two hundred persons were reported arrested in the provinces to be held for execution unless the assassins of Reinhard (Hangan) Heydrich, Gestapo chief and "deputy protector" of Bohemia-Moravia, are apprehended.

Tass reported a sharp clash between police and the populace at Osek, 90 miles from Prague, in which the police used firearms. Casualties were not known.

Czech circles in London, commenting on the Tass report, said they understood "many thousands" had been arrested in Czechoslovakia, and that this was responsible for the Osek clash. The majority will be released tomorrow.

Other Attacks Hinted Hints of the new Hitler purge reached London along with reports of further violent attacks against Gestapo chiefs in occupied countries.

There was even a suggestion (Continued on Page Two)

Reports To London Claim

that the grave wounding in Prague of Reinhard (Hangman)
Heydrich might have been plotted
by the Nazis themselves in a move to purge the deputy chief of the Gestapo.

Reports from Istanbul, quoted
by the Daily Sketch, said that Hitler had begun to purge several Nazi leaders, among them Field Marshal Von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German army until Hitler took over himself, and Walther R. Darre, Reich minister of agriculture and head of the food supply organization.
The Istanbul dispatch said Von Brauchitsch and Darre and 13 other high ranking officials had been imprisoned.

Others Reported Shot
Reports from Stockholm said that the deputy chief of the Gestapo for western Norway and one of his aides were shot and killed by inhabitants of Sotra island, off the coast of Bergen.

In reprisal, it was said, the Germans wiped out the entire village of Televaag, scene of the shooting.
Every man in the town was said to have been arrested and all families evacuated from Televaag.
All livestock was said to have been killed or sold by the Nazis
and all buildings burned.

In another part of Norway 320 Norwegians were said to have been arrested as the result of the shooting of a Quisling (Norwegian Nazi) policeman.
One hundred of these were said to have been sent to Germany as hostages while the arrest of 80 more was expected.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Nazi secret police, meanwhile was reported en route to Prague to direct the hunt for the assassins of Heydrich whose condition is said to be grave.

Three Bullets in Spine
Three bullets which injured his spinal cord were said to have been removed from Heydrich in an operation by Professor Sauer-bruch.

Six persons were said to have been executed as a direct result of the attack Wednesday on Hey-drich. Two of them reportedly were women. They were said to have been executed under a provision that the entire families of persons involved in the Heydrich attack be shot. All were accused of concealing persons "known to be engaged in activities against the Reich."

The London Times suggested that the assassination attempt against Heydrich, who has been succeeded as protector of Bohemia-Moravia by Kurt Daluege, may have come from within the Nazi party.

If the attempt to kill Heydrich is the work of Czechs, said the newspaper, "it shows that patriotism is seeking a desperate outlet, but in the unnatural conditions of life in the Nazi Reich it would not be surprising if there were other explanations for the attack afoot. Heydrich would not be the first victim of a vendetta within the Nazi camp."

The announcement from Prague
that Storm Troop Group Leader
Daluege had succeeded Heydrich said that the wounded Gestapo official had been elevated to Gestapo chief of all occupied Europe.

All Meetings Banned
Daluege set to work immediately by issuing a decree banning all Czech meetings, sports events, theatrical shows and other cultural events. All other amusement places and restaurants were ordered to be closed by 10 p. m.

Louis donated his entire purses to Army-Navy relief in defending his title against Buddy Baer on January 9 and Abe Simon March 27. Louis now is awaiting permission from the Army to defend his title again, with part of the proceeds going to Army-Navy relief and the reminder being used to pay his tax, which now is due July 15.

CANINE'S RIGHT TO BARK UPHELD IN COURT TEST

CHICAGO, May 29—The right of a dog to bark—"like a man's right of free speech"—stood upheld today by Judge Leon Edelman.

Mrs. Rae Edmonds said she had complained several times to William Schulte, a neighbor, that his barking dog was keeping her awake at night. She said he retaliated by threatening her with a shotgun.

Schulte contended it was a rifle,
an unloaded one.
"Also Mrs. Edmonds annoys my dog by making faces at it," he added. "I had to put up an awnsling for the dog's protection."

The judge then ruled in favor of the dog and required a $100
peace bond from both Mrs. Edmonds and Schulte.

The main battle ground appeared to have shifted to the El Adem sector south of Tobruk, British-held fortress on the Mediterranean coast, after imperial defense
forces repulsed Nazi tank assaults in the Bir Hacheim area to the southwest.

Severe punishment was dealt to the German and Italian columns by Royal Air Force planes which reportedly inflicted heavy losses
on the axis supply trains.

No where have the British defenses been pierced and the imperial front line remains intact, reports from the fighting zone
said.

The battle line began to take a more definite shape, with clashes occurring along a front extending north from Bir Hacheim to the Mediterranean coast in the vicinity of El Gazala.

British fighter planes roared across the channel this morning in the direction of Calais following night raids on the occupied coast.
Airfields and railroad centers were the main targets. Several locomotives were destroyed, and traffic from Paris to Rouen completely disrupted, an official announcement said. Another bomber formation attacked a German convoy off the Dutch coast and set four ships afire.

BRIDGES READY TO FIGHT ORDER TO LEAVE U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29 —
Harry Bridges, stormy petrel of a dozen west coast labor battles, marshaled his forces today for a last ditch fight against the surprise deportation order issued yesterday by Attorney General Francis Biddle that would send him back to his native Australia.

Awaiting actual arrival of the order from Washington, Bridges,
president of the CIO Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union, announced he and his attorneys have just formed no definite plan of action.

"But we have just begun to fight," he added.
When the order arrives, Irvin Wixon, San Francisco director of immigration, or one of his inspectors is expected to arrest Bridges. The labor leader now is free on $3,000 bond posted at the time he originally was taken into custody.

know more about military affairs than we do. If they say we need the younger men I'll vote for it.
"I expect that it will be done in order to build the Army to the size we seek.

"All labor is utilized and it is often difficult to get men 60 years old for work. This inevitably makes it necessary to seek the younger men for the Army."

High Army officials, who once before sought authority for induction of youths 18 and 19, are known to have sounded out congressional leaders on chances for favorable action on a renewed recommendation.

President Roosevelt also planned to confer with Maj. Gen.
Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, on use of 18 and 19 year olds, who will be registered next month.

Reynolds said enactment of a family allotment bill does not mean that married men are to be inducted in the Army and Navy
without limit.

Some military affairs leaders in Congress expect the question of drafting 18 and 19 year old youths to come to a head within the next month.

PURGE RUMORS HEARD; HIMMLER GOES TO PRAGUE

Reports To London Claim

The London Times suggested that the assassination attempt against Heydrich, who has been succeeded as protector of Bohemia-Moravia by Kurt Daluege, may have come from within the Nazi party.
If the attempt to kill Heydrich is the work of Czechs, said the newspaper, "it shows that patriotism is seeking a desperate outlet, but in the unnatural conditions of life in the Nazi Reich it would not be surprising if there were other explanations for the attack afoot. Heydrich would not be the first victim of a vendetta within the Nazi camp."

The announcement from Prague that Storm Troop Group Leader Daluege had succeeded Heydrich as protector of Bohemia-Moravia said that the wounded Gestapo official had been elevated to Gestapo chief of all occupied Europe.

All Meetings Banned
Daluege set to work immediately by issuing a decree banning all Czech meetings, sports events, theatrical shows and other cultural events. All other amusement places and restaurants were ordered to be closed by 10 p. m.

JOE LOUIS GIVEN MORE TIME TO PAY INCOME TAX

NEW YORK, May 29—Private Joe Louis today was granted an additional 30 days in which to pay his 1941 income tax. The heavyweight boxing champion, now serving in the morale division of the Army, owes approximately $117,000 to Uncle Sam for whom he now is working for $21 a month, pending the raise in a private's pay.
Louis donated his entire purses to Army-Navy relief in defending his title against Buddy Baer on January 9 and Abe Simon March 27. Louis now is awaiting permission from the Army to defend his title again, with part of the proceeds going to Army-Navy relief and the remainder being used to pay his tax, which now is due July 15.

throughout the 28th," the British communicate said.

"One enemy column moving northeast of Bir Macheim on the 27th directed its action against El-Adem but did not reach its objective, although small advance elements, avoiding the engagement, got to El Duda and Didi Rezegh but were driven off by our armored forces.

"Later this column joined forces with the other column in the neighborhood of Knightsbridge, 22 miles south of Acroma.

"Combined enemy forces here were engaged by our armored forces.

"The enemy attack from south of El Adem was broken up. Our armored units successfully attacked enemy supply columns south of El Adem.

R. A. F. Assists

"The R.A.F. gave maximum support to the land forces, intercepting enemy air attacks and causing considerable damage among enemy vehicles."

The main battle ground appeared to have shifted to the El Adem sector south of Tobruk, British-held fortress on the Mediterranean coast, after imperial defense forces repulsed Nazi tank assaults in the Bir Hacheim area to the southwest.

Severe punishment was dealt to the German and Italian columns by Royal Air Force planes which reportedly inflicted heavy losses on the axis supply trains.

No where have the British defenses been pierced and the imperial front line remains intact, reports from the fighting zone said.

The battle line began to take a more definite shape, with clashes occurring along a front extending north from Bir Hacheim to the Mediterranean coast in the vicinity of El Gazala.

British fighter planes roared across the channel this morning in the direction of Calais following night raids on the occupied coast. Airfields and railroad centers were the main targets. Several locomotives were destroyed, and traffic from Paris to Rouen completely disrupted, an official announcement said. Another bomber formation attacked a German convoy off the Dutch coast and set four ships afire.

BRIDGES READY TO FIGHT ORDER TO LEAVE U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29—Harry Bridges, stormy petrel of a dozen west coast labor battles, marshaled his forces today for a last ditch fight against the surprise deportation order issued yesterday by Attorney General Francis Biddle that would send him back to his native Australia.

Awaiting actual arrival of the order from Washington, Bridges, president of the CIO Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union, announced he and his attorneys have just formed no definite plan of action.

"But we have just begun to fight," he added.

When the order arrives, Irvin Wixon, San Francisco director of immigration, or one of his inspectors is expected to arrest Bridges. The labor leader now is free on $3,000 bond posted at the time he originally was taken into custody.

WASHINGTON, May 29—Sen. Robert R. Reynolds (D) N. C., today announced that he will move for immediate senate action on a bill to outlaw the Communist party, the German-American Bund and all other organizations or groups advocating the overthrow of the United States government by force or violence.

at Lae, New Guinea, and Rabaul, New Britain. The enemy retaliated by sending 20 zero fighters to attack Port Moresby, United Nations New Guinea base. Four Japanese planes were destroyed and a number damaged in the day's actions. The United Nations lost two fighters and a bomber.

Kinhwa Still Held
Embattled Chinese armies still held Kinhwa although the Japanese had brought up 10,000 reinforcements in a determined effort to capture the east China town which could be used as a base for air attacks on the Japanese mainland, 600 miles distant. Bloody fighting continued with heavy losses on both sides. Jap casualties to date were said to exceed 13,000.

know more about military affairs than we do. If they say we need the younger men I'll vote for it.

"I expect that it will be done in order to build the Army to the size we seek.

"All labor is utilized and it is often difficult to get men 60 years old for work. This inevitably makes it necessary to seek the younger men for the Army."

High Army officials, who once before sought authority for induction of youths 18 and 19, are known to have sounded out congressional leaders on chances for favorable action on a renewed recommendation.

President Roosevelt also planned to confer with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, on use of 18 and 19 year olds, who will be registered next month.

Reynolds said enactment of a family allotment bill does not mean that married men are to be inducted in the Army and Navy without limit.

Some military affairs leaders in Congress expect the question of drafting 18 and 19 year old youths to come to a head within the next month.

RATION BOARD MOVES TO GIVE BETTER SERVICE

Various Members Placed On Specific Duty To Handle Important Tasks

DIVISIONS ARE SET UP

Persons Needing Sugar For Strawberry Canning May Apply Now

Circleville's rationing board was subdivided into three committees Friday for special handling of the various restrictions. Under the new set-up the board will remain as one body of seven members, but there will be three groups which will take a special interest in the study of their rationing items.

In respect to automobiles, tires, gas, bicycles and any other motive equipment the rationing program will be handled by Leslie May, Ed Wallace and Clarence Helvering.

Another division has been set up for food restrictions that will include sugar, coffee and tea and other items that might be added. This committee includes Don Mason, Frank Turner and Don Walker.

Howard Orr and John Eshelman will be assigned to the duties of industrial regulations and will have charge over such things as price ceilings, typewriters and transportation.

This action has been taken by the local board in an effort to lessen the strain put on any one person with increasing items coming under their supervision.

The committeemen can spend more time on their particular issues and therefore get a better understanding of the restrictions and regulations.

In answer to many housewives' questions the rationing board disclosed that those who need sugar for canning strawberries may obtain their certificates for purchase by contacting Leslie May of the Circleville Oil Company or Weaver's wholesale house. To date the state has not furnished a clerk for the rationing office and until it does so the rationing will be handled through these channels. However, the board warned that only those who need sugar now should apply.

SEVERAL PRIORITY ITEMS TO BE GIVEN TO FARMERS

Several items of importance in regard to priorities on farm machinery and needs were released Friday by the county AAA office. According to this office the War Production Board has assured farmers of anti-freeze for their machinery this winter. A sufficient quantity will be made available for farm use due to the curtailment of 50 percent of the nation's automobile traffic.

In the tin plate issue the board has announced the release of the following items for sale to farmers, cans, dairy equipment, cheese vats, oil lanterns and textile spinning machinery.

An additional ruling of the board exempts dairy, coffee grinding and food slicing equipment from the government restrictions.

CIRCLEVILLE ELKS WILL AID IN SLIPPER PROGRAM

Leaders of the Circleville Elks Lodge announced Friday a campaign to collect various articles of clothing and supplies as an aid to a project of the Columbus lodge which is supplying these materials for 16 military camps.

A recent request from these camps indicated a dire need of 34,500 pair of bed room slippers, 1,000 spools of thread, any color; 300 rolls of oil cloth, any color; 150 rolls of leatherette; 40,000 square feet of cardboard, 3,000 yards of cotton material, any color; house linens and any other carpet or clothing article.

Any one wishing to aid the local group in its participation in the collection should contact the Elks Home. Members of the club are expected to schedule a drive in the city later to lend support to the Columbus undertaking.

CITY MAIL DELIVERY TO BE CONDUCTED SATURDAY

A. Hulse Hays, Circleville postmaster, announced Friday that there would be regular Saturday morning mail delivery in the city in line with a government order to that effect.

This is the first time in the local office's history that there has been any delivery on Memorial Day but the measure was ordered as a war time necessity. City mail deliveries will be made Saturday with the window at the office remaining open until noon.

Rural carriers will observe a full holiday because their routes require a whole day to cover.

Staggered half holidays will be given those who have to work Saturday at other times so that they will not be deprived of their Memorial Day holiday.

CONSTRUCTION MEN MAY FIND PLACES IN NAVY

U. S. Navy has opened enlistments, with ratings, for men with construction experience for enrollment in Class V-6 of the Naval Reserve for assignment to headquarters and construction companies in a Construction Regiment. These headquarters and construction companies are comprised of mechanics, carpenters, electricians, power plant operators, blacksmiths, metalsmiths, drillers, divers, wharfbuilders, etc., for shore duty at Naval bases outside the continental limits of the United States. Acting appointments are made to persons between the ages of 17 and 50 in various ratings up to and including chief petty officer, depending upon the age, experience and other qualifications of the personnel enlisted.

The enlistment period is for the duration of the war. The salaries for these enlistments range from $36.00 to $99.00 a month and include housing, food, clothing, transportation, medical and dental care, and other incidentals, to which enlisted personnel are entitled. An allowance of $34.50 is provided in the case of a dependent for rating of petty officer, 2nd class, or above. However, not more than one dependent may be claimed. If you are interested in such enlistment, apply to your nearest Navy Recruiting Station for information, or communicate with Commander E. J. Spaulding, Room 1301, Navy building, Washington, D. C., for an application for enlistment form.

Republicans Look For Treasurer; Weir Quits

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen
WASHINGTON, May 29—Wanted: A GOP money-raiser.

National Chairman Joe Martin is quietly hunting for someone to replace steel magnate Ernest Weir as finance chairman of the Republican National Committee.

It wasn't announced at the time, but Weir formally quit at the recent National Committee meeting in Chicago. He gave as his excuse lack of time due to war work, but insiders say the real reason was personal dislike of Martin. It's no party secret that Weir and oilman Joe Pew, Pennsylvania Republican boss, wanted to eliminate Martin as National Chairman.

If personal dislike was the reason for Weir's resignation, the feeling was mutual. On his part, Martin never was fond of the Pittsburgh steel mogul. However, in the interest of the party, Martin was willing to work with him, but if Weir didn't want to play, that was okay with Martin.

Up to last week, Martin thought he had found an ace money-raiser in Colby Chester, 62-year-old board chairman of Admiral Foods Corporation. An admirer of Martin, Chester tentatively agreed to take the job after a long talk between them.

But last week he sent his regrets, saying that rationing, price control, and loss of key assistants forced him to devote all his time to his giant company. General Foods' president Clare Francis and advertising manager Charles Mortimer are dollar-a-year WPB officials.

However, GOP insiders say there was another factor behind Chester's declination.

According to them, he put the matter up to Mrs. Joseph Davis, wife of Roosevelt's friend, the former U. S. Ambassador to Russia, and to other big company stockholders. They advised against taking the Republican post.

Do-As-Done-By Department

Chalk up an Industrial Distinguished Service situation for America's vast railroad shops and the labor employed in them. They are going to work on ships, munitions, war equipment—on a 48-hour week, instead of the 40 hours they could have had if they had insisted on it. Further, the workers are foregoing overtime pay, and management all profits, on war business.

The deal was engineered by the War Department's Industrial-Labor Relations Section, with the full cooperation of the workers and management.

Railroad shops always have worked a 48-hour week. Most other similar industries are geared to the 40-hour week. Had the rail shop unions insisted, they probably could have got overtime pay above 40 hours. But they waived it on the condition that their action would not be used as a precedent to batter down labor standards in other industries. The War Department readily agreed.

"A few more enlightened agreements between government, industry and labor such as this one," said one top Army official, "and we will have the labor-baiters in and out of Congress on the ropes."

Lindbergh's Friend

Very quietly and with no fanfare, Col. Truman Smith, one-time friend of Charles A. Lindbergh, has come back into the War Department. Although never fully published at the time, a very significant story lies behind his exit.

For some time before the war, Col. Smith was U. S. military attaché in Berlin. There he got to know the German army better, perhaps, than any other U. S. Army officer. This was partly because some years before he had befriended several German officers when they came to Fort Benning to study U. S. military methods.

As a result of Col. Smith's knowledge, the U. S. Army had an excellent insight into German military preparations.

While in Germany, Col. Smith became a close friend of Lindbergh, and later when Lindbergh used to visit Washington, he sometimes stayed at Smith's home.

This came to the attention of Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, who indignantly reported it to the White House, together with a strong suggestion that Col. Smith be court-martialed.

However, Chief of Staff Marshall and Assistant Secretary of War Johnson stepped in, warned that a court-martial would have had repercussions; so instead Col. Smith was retired.

All this was a year before Pearl Harbor. But since the United States entered the war, Col. Smith has come back again. Officially, he is in Military Intelligence. But actually—though Justice Frankfurter doesn't know it—he is giving his knowledge of Germany to the War Plans Division of the General Staff.

Bark From Home

The alert Radio Branch of the War Department received a letter from an Indiana farm boy, now with the expeditionary force in Australia, saying he certainly liked the radio programs the Department sent out. He liked Dorothy Lamour's singing and Charlie McCarthy, and appreciated very much the sports reports. They were all swell, he said, but what he really would like to hear was the voice of his dog, Queenie.

So the Radio Branch sent sound recording equipment out to the soldier's farm home in Indiana and in a few days he will be hearing the voice of Queenie herself.

Budget Czar

Few people outside the government realize how all-powerful has become the Director of the Budget. In fact, even the Undersecretary of War, Judge Patterson, did not realize it until the other day.

He planned to publish a magazine called "Fire Power" to circulate in factories to inspire workers to faster production, show how the war must be won in the factory as well as at the front.

But when the first issue of "Fire Power" was ready for press, Harold Smith, efficient, all-embracing director of the Budget, wrote that it was his job, since 1922, to decide whether such projects could be started, and that he hereby decided against it.

Undersecretary Patterson was a bit puzzled as to why the Budget Bureau should rule on a vital question of morale for wartime production. But finally, after cluttering up the files with a lot of official correspondence, he managed to remove the red tape, and the War Department was permitted to publish its magazine.

RATION BOARD MOVES TO GIVE BETTER SERVICE

Various Members Placed On Specific Duty To Handle Important Tasks

DIVISIONS ARE SET UP

Persons Needing Sugar For Strawberry Canning May Apply Now

Circleville's rationing board was subdivided into three committees Friday for special handling of the various restrictions. Under the new set-up the board will remain as one body of seven members, but there will be these three groups which will take a special interest in the study of their rationing items.

In respect to automobiles, tires, gas, bicycles and any other movable equipment the rationing program will be handled by Leslie May, Ed Wallace and Clarence Helvering.

Another division has been set up for food restrictions that will include sugar, coffee and tea and other items that might be added. This committee includes Don Mason, Frank Turner and Don Walker.

Howard Orr and John Eshelman will be assigned to the duties of industrial regulations and will have charge over such things as price ceilings, typewriters and transportation.

This action has been taken by the local board in an effort to lessen the strain put on any one person with increasing items coming under their supervision.

The committees can spend more time on their particular issues and therefore get a better understanding of the restrictions and regulations.

In answer to many housewives' questions the rationing board disclosed that those who need sugar for canning strawberries may obtain their certificates for purchase by contacting Leslie May of the Circleville Oil Company or Weaver's wholesale house. To date the state has not furnished a clerk for the rationing office and until it does so the rationing will be handled through these channels. However, the board warned that only those who need sugar now should apply.

SEVERAL PRIORITY ITEMS TO BE GIVEN TO FARMERS

Several items of importance in regard to priorities on farm machinery and needs were released Friday by the county AAA office. According to this office the War Production Board has assured farmers of anti-freeze for their machinery this winter. A sufficient quantity will be made available for farm use due to the curtailment of 50 percent of the nation's automobile traffic.

In the tin plate issue the board has announced the release of the following items for sale to farmers, cans, dairy equipment, cheese vats, oil lanterns and textile spinning machinery.

An additional ruling of the board exempts dairy, coffee grinding and food slicing equipment from the government restrictions.

CIRCLEVILLE ELKS WILL AID IN SLIPPER PROGRAM

Leaders of the Circleville Elks Lodge announced Friday a campaign to collect various articles of clothing and supplies as an aid to a project of the Columbus lodge which is supplying these materials for 16 military camps.

A recent request from these camps indicated a dire need of 34,500 pair of bed room slippers, 1,000 spools of thread, any color; 300 rolls of oil cloth, any color; 150 rolls of leatherette; 40,000 square feet of cardboard; 3,000 yards of cotton material, any color; house linens and any other carpet or clothing article.

Any one wishing to aid the local group in its participation in the collection should contact the Elks Home. Members of the club are expected to schedule a drive in the city later to lend support to the Columbus undertaking.

CITY MAIL DELIVERY TO BE CONDUCTED SATURDAY

A. Hulse Hays, Circleville postmaster, announced Friday that there would be regular Saturday morning mail delivery in the city in line with a government order to that effect.

This is the first time in the local office's history that there has been any delivery on Memorial Day but the measure was ordered as a war time necessity. City mail deliveries will be made Saturday with the window at the office remaining open until noon.

Rural carriers will observe a full holiday because their routes require a whole day to cover.

Staggered half holidays will be given those who have to work Saturday at other times so that they will not be deprived of their Memorial Day holiday.

CONSTRUCTION MEN MAY FIND PLACES IN NAVY

U. S. Navy has opened enlistments, with ratings, for men with construction experience for enrollment in Class V-6 of the Naval Reserve for assignment to headquarters and construction companies in a Construction Regiment. These headquarters and construction companies are comprised of mechanics, carpenters, electricians, power plant operators, blacksmiths, metalworkers, drillers, divers, wharfbuilders, etc., for shore duty at Naval bases outside the continental limits of the United States. Acting appointments are made to persons between the ages of 17 and 50 in various ratings up to and including chief petty officer, depending upon the age, experience and other qualifications of the personnel enlisted.

The enlistment period is for the duration of the war. The salaries for these enlistments range from $36.00 to $99.00 a month and include housing, food, clothing, transportation, medical and dental care, and other incidentals, to which enlisted personnel are entitled. An allowance of $34.50 is provided in the case of a dependent for rating of petty officer, 2nd class, or above. However, not more than one dependent may be claimed.

If you are interested in such enlistment, apply to your nearest Navy Recruiting Station for information, or communicate with Commander E. J. Spaulding, Room 1301, Navy building, Washington, D. C., for an application for enlistment form.

Republicans Look For Treasurer; Weir Quits

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen
WASHINGTON, May 29—Wanted: A GOP money-raiser. National Chairman Joe Martin is quietly hunting for someone to replace steel magnate Ernest Weir as finance chairman of the Republican National Committee.

It wasn't announced at the time, but Weir formally quit at the recent National Committee meeting in Chicago. He gave as his excuse lack of time due to war work, but insiders say the real reason was personal dislike of Martin. It's no party secret that Weir and oilman Joe Pew, Pennsylvania Republican boss, wanted to eliminate Martin as National Chairman.

If personal dislike was the reason for Weir's resignation, the feeling was mutual. On his part, Martin never was fond of the Pittsburgh steel mogul. However, in the interest of the party, Martin was willing to work with him, but if Weir didn't want to play, that was okay with Martin.

Up to last week, Martin thought he had found an ace money-raiser in Colby Chester, 62-year-old board chairman of General Foods Corporation. An admirer of Martin, Chester tentatively agreed to take the job after a long talk between them.

But last week he sent his regrets, saying that rationing, price control, and loss of key assistants forced him to devote all his time to his giant company. General Foods' president Clare Francis and advertising manager Charles Mortimer are dollar-a-year WPB officials.

However, GOP insiders say there was another factor behind Chester's declination.

According to them, he put the matter up to Mrs. Joseph Davis, wife of Roosevelt's friend, the former U. S. Ambassador to Russia, and to other big company stockholders. They advised against taking the Republican post.

Do-As-Done-By Department

Chalk up an Industrial Distinguished Service situation for America's vast railroad shops and the labor employed in them. They are going to work on ships, munitions, war equipment—on a 48-hour week, instead of the 40 hours they could have had if they had insisted on it. Further, the workers are foregoing overtime pay, and management all profits, on war business.

The deal was engineered by the War Department's Industrial-Labor Relations Section, with the full cooperation of the workers and management.

Railroad shops always have worked a 48-hour week. Most other similar industries are geared to the 40-hour week. Had the rail shop unions insisted, they probably could have got overtime pay above 40 hours. But they waived it on the condition that their action would not be used as a precedent to batter down labor standards in other industries. The War Department readily agreed.

OPEN LETTERS

TO FARMERS

RURAL FRIENDS: Next Monday, June 1, has been designated by county commissioners as Salvage Day in Pickaway county, and I hope that all of you do your part to make it a success. Trucks will be sent through the county that day, some being county trucks, some township trucks and some privately owned. All kinds of usable salvage found on your property is needed to help Uncle Sam in his war effort. Every one knows that he should do his part, because estimates declare that plenty of salvage remains untouched on farms of the rural areas of the state. It would be mighty nice if you would have your salvage arranged so that persons touring the county can spend as little time as possible at your residence. I hope that the trucks will come into Circleville filled to overflowing with iron, rubber and other valuable salvage materials. It is needed in the war effort, believe me.

CIRCUITEER.

TO JAYCEES

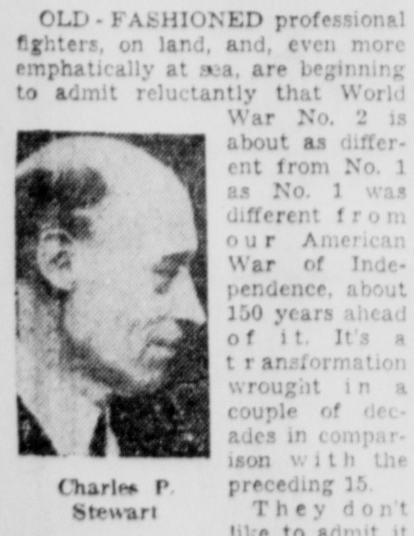

COF C: For a long time the city of Circleville has been in need of an organization of young men to work for the benefit of our community, and I was glad to hear that your meeting Tuesday was such a big success. The interest shown at the meeting is symbolic of the intentions of our younger men to safeguard the well-being of Circleville's citizens. I am confident that your organization will not fail to become an influential civic group in the city.

ALL: A twelve-point program for adjusting living expenses so that ten percent may be spent for War Savings securities has been issued by the National Thrift Committee. It is a useful list, but seems a trifle long and overlapping. It can be summed up more briefly, perhaps, something like this: put off buying anything the family's health and vigor do not require. Don't buy anything made of goods needed by war. Buy necessities only as needed. Get down to simple living without frills. Hang on to accumulated sav-

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Charles P. Stewart

OLD-FASHIONED professional fighters, on land, and, even more emphatically at sea, are beginning to admit reluctantly that World War No. 2 is about as different from No. 1 as No. 1 was different from our American War of Independence, about 150 years ahead of it. It's a transformation wrought in a couple of decades in comparison with the preceding 15.

They don't like to admit it because it makes them seem like back numbers.

Aviation is what's poisoned their original system.

It was a mere adjunct in 1914-18. They thought it was going to be the same thing again. Instead, it threatens to supplant them.

The groundlings still have hopes, as to the future. When it comes to OCCUPYING an enemy country, they reckon that surface troops will have to do the business. They are getting ready for an actual invasion of the European continental terrain. Flyers can come down via parachute, but not in sufficient numbers and at a rapid enough rate to escape being chewed up about as fast as they hit terra firma. Grounding invaders simply can roll in, in irresistible waves. That presumably is what our A. E. F. is in Ireland for—to swish, plus the English, across the Channel and swamp Germany, in co-operation with the Russians, from the other direction. Sir Stafford Cripps told parliament about it, as Winston Churchill's spokesman, a few days ago.

But the aviators are expected to prepare things for this surface movement, in advance.

During World War No. 1, of which I saw quite a bit, as a news correspondent, the airman was an observer mainly. He might spill a few bombs. German airplanes were something of a nuisance over London, but no serious worry. The damage they did was negligible.

That was what orthodox warriors anticipated this time. Instead—My!—they raise hades.

It's reciprocated, too.

But what German air bombers have done over England and what British flyers have done to German centers like Rostock and Mannheim isn't a circumstance to Japan's vulnerability as a target for our own airman. Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and 79 other American flyers proved this a few weeks ago without losing a single plane.

You need to have lived in Japan, as I have, to appreciate that kind of a raid's effects in the Mikado's realm.

On a second thought, I slightly qualify that reference to the Mikado.

Some unquestionably American loyal locally-born Japs, whom I know, assure me that Emperor Hirohito didn't want to get into this war and that a lot of his countrymen didn't, but that they were yanked into it forcibly by Nippon's war lords, the crazy Samurai. Their hope is that we ought to propagandize decent Japan and we'll win 'em over to our side in due course.

Just now, though, is an emergency.

Momentarily the poor cusses require extermination.

So do the Germans, but they're not so easy to exterminate.

Germany is substantially built. Its factories and things can have sizable chunks blasted out of them, and still function. A Jap factory, though, resembles one of our "tempo" in Washington. Set it afire and it's a goner, for a whole group of city blocks. It isn't confined to that one; others catch quickly.

Planes Have Advantage

It can't be done navally.

Most of the places aren't close enough to the seafloor. Yokohama is, and so is Kobe, but not farther inland. They call for aviation. And it must make 'em holler to have bombs dropped as close to the imperial palace as LaFayette Park is to the White House—just across the street.

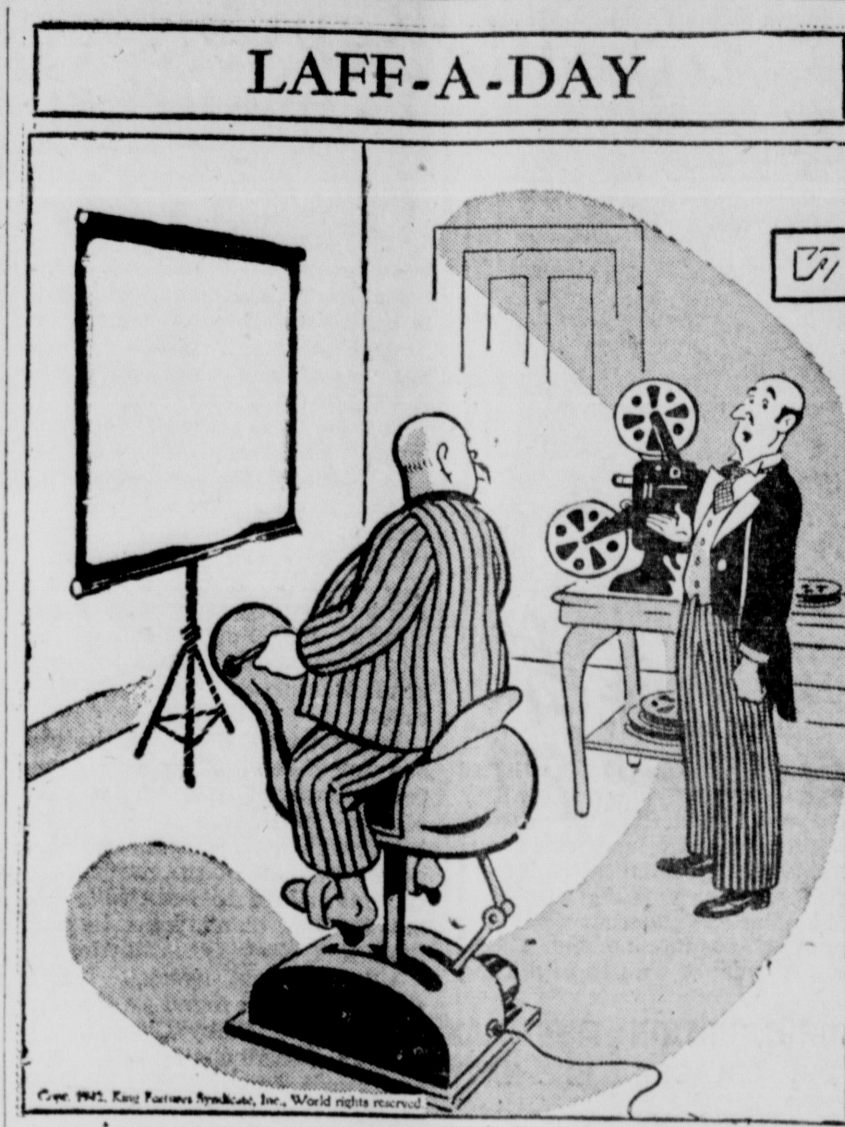

I know that imperial layout—a palace, with a big park around it, a wall around that and a moat surrounding the wall.

Well, it's nearly impossible to worm in on an alleged defense of that kind with a naval force. It's gotta be squashed from overhead.

Plane-carriers are fine, to get close up. Transports are vital, to land ground forces, and supply 'em. Cruisers and destroyers are essential to run errands. But big ships are getting to be superfluous.

Aviation protects 'em, more than anything else does.

Aviation appears to be IT in modern warfare.

DIET AND HEALTH

Meaning of Changes in Appearance of Tongue

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

LIKE THE LIPS, as we said last week, the tongue is a part of the body which we can see every day and I gather a great many people look at it every day as a sort of barometer of general health.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

health. I gather this, for one thing, from the emphasis that the movies put on the maneuver: invariably the actor who is playing the part of a frequenter of night clubs is shown arising in the morning, going to the mirror and sticking out his tongue and looking at it more or less ruefully.

The old family doctor used to use the tongue in this way. I culled from an old medical book the suggestion that a "beefy" tongue occurs in chronic inflammation of the bowel or liver; that a "furred" tongue means nervous prostration if the fur is brown; if the tongue is dry with fissures, the condition is grave; light fur means an irritation of the stomach; yellow fur means liver derangement. If the tongue is red along the center it means intestinal irritation; if glassy, it is very unfavorable; if it is bright red it indicates gastric inflammation and if it is red and cracked it means kidney trouble. Since these are about all the kinds of tongues there are, if you follow this system and depend on your tongue, you are pretty certain to be suffering from something.

Fortunately all this tongue lore has been given up as misinformation, but to a certain extent the tongue is the mirror of the system. The general conditions in which the tongue shows characteristic changes are the anemias, deficiency diseases and a few general fevers, such as scarlet fever.

"Raw, red tongue, raw red gut" is a colloquialism which indicates that in many of the anemias the digestive tract is disturbed throughout its whole course. Nearly any kind of anemia shows itself in the first part of its course in a sore, red tongue, often with little painful blisters on it. As the disease progresses if no treatment is administered, the tongue becomes small and atrophied so that the little papillae are smoothed out. The vitamin deficiency diseases often show up in the tongue first.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

AS TIBBY opened the tiny box from the jeweler's, her heart beat rapidly, pounding against her ribs. This might have been caused by anticipation as to what the box would reveal. A girl surely should feel all fluttery upon first viewing her engagement ring. Or it might have been apprehension, since Tibby's emotions seemed composed more of anxiety than joy.

They changed—whatever these emotions had been—to amazement as she caught her breath and gazed at the beautiful ring that rested in its white satin inclosure. Tibby had never seen such a magnificent ring. It was an enormous, flawless pearl surrounded by sapphires and set in an exquisite mounting of platinum. Tibby dared not even try to surmise how much it had cost, a king's ransom in her eyes.

She did not—as might have been expected, had she been that fluttery girl whose rapid heart spelled joy—slip it on her finger to hold it off, twisting her hand, the better to see how it would look and feel. She could not imagine such a ring on her plain little hand, a hand that bore a few freckles from the sun and wind, and blunt fingers that, although carefully tended, did not flash bright polish of some fashionable shade. That was the sort of hand, long, scarlet-tipped, tapering fingers, soft and white, that should set off the magnificence of such a ring, a hand like Steena's, for instance, a hand coached in graceful gestures and attitudes that would be content to preserve its softness with lotions and gloves, to be folded upon a silken lap. It should not be a plain little brown hand that weathered frost and sun, was indifferent to callouses and blisters. A ring, such as this, would be inconsistent upon her hand; it would not look as if it belonged there at all. It would be heavy and uncomfortable, as well as out of place.

Oh, dear, why had Wayne bought such a ring! Couldn't he see that Tibby never would be happy wearing it! Didn't he realize how unsuitable it was for her? She felt ungrateful, wretched, but that was the way it was, although she supposed she not only would have to wear it, but she would have to pretend to like it, to be simply wild about it, in fact.

There was a note with the tiny box, a tiny card in a tiny envelope, of the sort the jeweler would supply. On it Wayne had scribbled a hasty line. "My sweet, I would prefer to put this on your finger myself, but I must be away for a few days. Please wear it all the time. With my love."

It was signed with his initials, W. C., as he always signed all office notations and bulletins. They were big bold initials that signified their importance even in their brevity, as did the accompanying messages which were commands to be carried out to the most minute detail.

"Put this on your finger . . . wear it all the time." The note—or notation—did not ask if she liked receiving such an order, or its way of presentation, or even the ring itself. It just told her what she was expected to do.

Tibby was glad that Wayne would be away for a few days. Surely she need not start obeying that order until his return. That would allow her a little time, a brief respite. She was glad, also, that he had not waited to put the ring on her finger himself. She would not have been able to have met that moment. Now she could, at least, try to be prepared to meet it, for of course she would have to pretend to be delighted with the ring. She wished she could be honest and tell Wayne how she really felt about it, but she knew that she could not.

She could not tell him honestly, bluntly, that she was not sure she loved him enough to marry him, that she was afraid she never would fit into his world. If she was going to be his wife, she would have to wear the jewels he chose for her, whether they were becoming and fitting or not.

She put the ring, in its little box with the white satin lining, away in her dresser drawer. If she had had a safe she would have locked it up. She even felt apprehensive about keeping it. It was a weight, though it was not on her hand, a burden, even shut out of sight. Suppose someone found it or stole it or that it somehow got lost?

She hoped that Wayne had had it insured.

These, then, were the emotions Tibby felt about her beautiful engagement ring.

In a way they were comparable, although different, to Steena's feelings when, coming in from her flight later that day, she found the other small box awaiting her. Her heart beat rapidly, too, as she opened it, with a mixture of anticipation and apprehension. That changed, as Tibby's had, to amazement when Steena saw the contents.

Like Tibby, she did not try on the gift she had received. She did not even remove it from the box. She read the few lines that Wayne had scribbled hastily on the white card. Then she tore it into shreds and threw it away. She put the box away, too, in the corner of a suitcase kept underneath her bed. Apparently she did not intend to wear what she had been given—maybe she did not want to accept it. Perhaps, again like Tibby, she wished she could tell Wayne just what she thought of him for sending her such a gift, knowing, of course, that she could not, that she would have to pretend to be delighted instead.

However, unlike Tibby, Steena did SOMETHING about it right away, what she might have called "taking steps." She would have to give Wayne some direct and chal-

EXCITEMENT, high pressure tactics and tempo may be looked for this day, judging by a very stimulating series of planetary aspects. This applies to all affairs, particularly large and important projects working in connection with public, community, fraternal and political activities as well as in co-operation with major corporations of a semi-private nature. While great progress and productivity are indicated, yet there is a retarding as well as a peculiar or surprising development to be rigorously dealt with, by decisive acts.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much tension and stress, with the energies under enforced tempo in the direction of high places or objectives. This is probably in connection with public, group or fraternal interests, whose support is assured. But there may be certain erratic or peculiar situations, which may prove minor setbacks.

A child born on this day should be energetic, ambitious and public spirited, with practical versatility and constructive ability, although having some eccentricities.

OPEN LETTERS

TO FARMERS

RURAL FRIENDS: Next Monday, June 1, has been designated by county commissioners as Salvage Day in Pickaway county, and I hope that all of you do your part to make it a success. Trucks will be sent through the county that day, some being county trucks, some township trucks and some privately owned. All kinds of usable salvage found on your property is needed to help Uncle Sam in his war effort. Every one knows that he should do his part, because estimates declare that plenty of salvage remains untouched on farms of the rural areas of the state. It would be mighty nice if you would have your salvage arranged so that persons touring the county can spend as little time as possible at your residence. I hope that the trucks will come into Circleville filled to overflowing with iron, rubber and other valuable salvage materials. It is needed in the war effort, believe me.

CIRCUITEER.

TO JAYCEES

COFFEE: For a long time the city of Circleville has been in need of an organization of young men to work for the benefit of our community, and I was glad to hear that your meeting Tuesday was such a big success. The interest shown at the meeting is symbolic of the intentions of our younger men to safeguard the well-being of Circleville's citizens. I am confident that your organization will not fail to become an influential civic group in the city.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CITIZENS

ALL: A twelve-point program for adjusting living expenses so that ten percent may be spent for War Savings securities has been issued by the National Thrift Committee. It is a useful list, but seems a trifle long and overlapping. It can be summed up more briefly, perhaps, something like this: put off buying anything the family's health and vigor do not require. Don't buy anything made of goods needed by war. Buy necessities only as needed. Get down to simple living without frills. Hang on to accumulated savings. If you draw from the bank to buy bonds, put the money back as soon as you can. Keep on with your regular saving. Plan your living so you can use the ten percent for war securities and still eat, sleep and work comfortably. Pay what you already owe, including home mortgage. Don't be wasteful with heat, electric power, gas, water, telephone. This summary can be tied up in an even smaller package. The New Englanders had a rhyme for it: Eat it up; wear it out; make it do or go without.

CIRCUITEER.

TO POPULACE

CITIZENS: It is about time that something is done to break up petty thievery that has been going on in Circleville. Over a period of a year or so, minor thefts have been harassing residents of the city, and townspeople and police are about at the end of their string. The garage raids the other evening were general; nearly all parts of the city were visited by the thieves, although the east end of Circleville was hardest hit. Tire thefts were committed, and burglaries of other needed items were reported. No one knows whether the robberies were committed by young persons or old, and it doesn't matter much which it was just so long as the culprits are apprehended, and then penalized. It is up to law officers to make arrests, and then it is up to the courts to see that persons committing crimes are not permitted to go free to add others to their records.

CIRCUITEER.

TO EVERYONE

FRIENDS: This Saturday will again bring forth the patriotic splendor of another Memorial Day with a complete service of honoring the dead being planned by local persons. For years the people of the United States have partially neglected their respect to the flag. I hope that when you attend the services Saturday and watch Old Glory pass by, as alive as ever, that you will not in these warring days fail to give proper observance to this symbol of protection. You all know the rules governing the display and tribute that should be given our flag and nothing would thrill me more than to see them rigidly followed at Circleville's Memorial Day parade.

CIRCUITEER.

TO PARENTS

FOLK: Recent outbreak of a scarlet fever epidemic in Wayne township has brought the question of unnecessary exposure to the front again. Any contagious disease can only be successfully fought if parents cooperate in confining their children and preventing exposure at any public gathering. This recent case was checked as soon as discovered in the school system, but lack of confinement after the school was closed has caused a greater spread of the ailment. If your child went to Wayne school or has been in contact with any of these pupils in the last week keep him home, and if he has the disease keep him in bed!

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

OLD-FASHIONED professional fighters, on land, and, even more emphatically at sea, are beginning to admit reluctantly that World War No. 2 is about as different from No. 1 as No. 1 was different from our American War of Independence, about 150 years ahead of it. It's a transformation wrought in a couple of decades in comparison with the preceding 15.

Charles P. Stewart

They don't like to admit it because it makes them seem like back numbers.

Aviation is what's poisoned their original system.

It was a mere adjunct in 1914-18. They thought it was going to be the same thing again. Instead, it threatens to supplant them. The groundings still have hopes, as to the future. When it comes to OCCUPYING an enemy country, they reckon that surface troops will have to do the business. They are getting ready for an actual invasion of the European continental terrain. Flyers can come down via parachute, but not in sufficient numbers and at a rapid enough rate to escape being chewed up about as fast as they hit terra firma. Grounding invaders simply can roll in, in irresistible waves. That presumably is what our A. E. F. is in Ireland for—to swish plus the English across the Channel and swamp Germany, in co-operation with the Russians, from the other direction. Sir Stafford Cripps told parliament that as Winston Churchill's spokesman, a few days ago.

But the aviators are expected to prepare the way for this surface movement, in advance.

During World War No. 1, of which I saw quite a bit, as a news correspondent, the airman was an observer mainly. He might spill a few bombs. German airplanes were something of a nuisance over London, but no serious worry. The damage they did was negligible.

That was what orthodox warriors anticipated this time. Instead—My!—they raise hoo.

It's reciprocated, too. But what German air bombers have done over England and what British flyers have done to German centers like Rostock and Mannheim isn't a circumstance to Japan's vulnerability as a target for our own airmen. Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and 79 other American flyers proved this a few weeks ago without losing a single plane.

You need to have lived in Japan, as I have, to appreciate that kind of a raid's effects in the Mikado's realm.

On a second thought, I slightly qualify that reference to the Mikado.

Some unquestionably American loyal locally-born Japs, whom I know, assure me that Emperor Hirohito didn't want to get into this war and that a lot of his countrymen didn't, but that they were yanked into it forcibly by Nippon's war lords, the crazy Samurais. Their dope is that we ought to propagandize decent Japan and we'll win over to our side in due course. Just now, though, is an emergency.

Momentarily the poor cusses require extermination.

So do the Germans, but they're not so easy to exterminate. Germany is substantially built. Its factories and things can have sizable chunks blasted out of them, and still function. A Jap factory, though, resembles one of our "tempo" in Washington. Set it afire and it's a goner, for a whole group of city blocks. It isn't confined to that; one's others catch quickly.

Planes Have Advantage

It can't be done navitairally. Most of the places aren't close enough to the seafloor. Yokohama is, and so is Kobe, but not farther inland. They call for aviation. And it must make 'em holler to have bombs dropped as close to the imperial palace as Lafayette Park is to the White House—just across the street.

I know that imperial layout—a palace, with a big park around it, a wall around that and a moat surrounding the wall.

Well, it's nearly impossible to worm in on an alleged defense of that kind with a naval force. It's gotta be squashed from overhead.

Plane-carriers are fine, to get close up. Transports are vital, to land ground forces, and supply 'em. Cruisers and destroyers are essential to run errands. But big ships are getting to be superfluous.

Aviation protects 'em, more than anything else does.

Aviation appears to be IT in modern warfare.

DIET AND HEALTH

Meaning of Changes in Appearance of Tongue

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

LIKE THE LIPS, as we said last week, the tongue is a part of the body which we can see every day and I gather a great many people look at it every day as a sort of barometer of general health. I gather this, for one thing, from the emphasis that the movies put on the maneuver: invariably the actor who is playing the part of a frequenter of night clubs is shown arising in the morning, going to the mirror and sticking out his tongue and looking at it more or less ruefully.

The old family doctor used to use the tongue in this way. I culled from an old medical book the suggestion that a "beefy" tongue occurs in chronic inflammation of the bowel or liver; that a "furred" tongue means nervous prostration, if the fur is brown; if the tongue is dry with fissures, the condition is grave; light fur means an irritation of the stomach; yellow fur means liver derangement. If the tongue is red along the center it means intestinal irritation; if glassy, it is very unfavorable; if it is bright red it indicates gastric inflammation and if it is red and cracked it means kidney trouble. Since these are about all the kinds of tongues there are, if you follow this system and depend on your tongue, you are pretty certain to be suffering from something.

Fortunately all this tongue lore has been given up as misinformation, but to a certain extent the tongue is the mirror of the system. The general conditions in which the tongue shows characteristic changes are the anemias, deficiency diseases and a few general fevers, such as scarlet fever.

"Raw, red tongue, raw red gut" is a colloquialism which indicates that in many of the anemias the digestive tract is disturbed throughout its whole course. Nearly any kind of anemia shows itself in the first part of its course in a sore, red tongue, often with little painful blisters on it. As the disease progresses if no treatment is administered, the tongue becomes small and atrophied so that the little papillae are smoothed out.

The vitamin deficiency diseases often show up in the tongue first.

This is true, for instance, of pellagra in all of its varieties, whether early or full-blown; also in other forms of vitamin B deficiency. The well-known sore tongue of the Southern mountaineer who used to spend the winter eating salt pork, molasses and corn pone was a sample of this.

The underside of the tongue probably shows jaundice before it can be seen in the whites of the eyes or the skin at all. The yellow discoloration of the tongue is the most delicate test of jaundice. A well-known diagnostician has estimated that there are twenty different general conditions of the body which are reflected in the tongue.

But the old, "furred" tongue is really not of any significance at all. I am sorry to disillusion the Hollywood diagnosticians, but it is no real indication, pro or con, of a hangover. The night club habitués may feel like the dickens all over, but his tongue will remain clear and normal. It is true, however, that chronic alcoholism produces changes in the tongue in about 60 per cent of cases. Most of these are due to the deficient diet which the alcoholic eats.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
J. M. D.:—"Is there any difference between a goiter and an enlarged thyroid gland? Why does a non-functioning thyroid cause one to be stout? What keeps the gland from functioning?"

Answer: The general name for an enlargement of the thyroid is goiter, but there are many different kinds. A non-functioning thyroid causes a person to be stout because the function of the thyroid gland is to keep nutrition running continuously at a definite level. This means that it causes foods to be burned. When it does not function the food accumulates in the tissues in the form of fat. A non-functioning thyroid gland stops functioning because the cells of the thyroid atrophy. What causes this to happen is a mystery.

However, unlike Tibby, Steena did SOMETHING about it right away, what she might have called "taking steps." She would have to give Wayne some direct and challenging answer to this gift; her pride demanded that. She would have to show him that she did not care that he had written, in those few hastily scribbled lines, that everything was over forever between them.

She went to the corner drug store, not taking time to change from her uniform, since she was driven to do something so quickly, in her bitter disappointment and despair. Steena did not call it heart break; she was too angry and proud for that. She would get even with Wayne Courtwright if it were the last thing she ever did, for letting her think there had been hopes that that gift might have been a solitaire, for taking her out so many evenings, for choosing her as the company's publicity hostess, for having kissed her and told her how beautiful she was . . . yes, for breaking her heart.

Steena knew that she loved him, now that she had lost him. It was Wayne whose loss she minded, not the loss of all his money, the things he could have given her. Millions were not the most important thing, after all. They were nice to have, but Steena knew now, as she dialed the number of the clinic where she hoped to reach young Dr. Dare to ask him to come out this evening, that even without all his riches Wayne Courtwright was the one, the only one for her.

"May I speak with Dr. Dare, please? It is VERY important." A matter of life and death, her hammering heart might have tacked on, although not the sort of life-and-death matter that might have been expected. "I love you, Wayne—I let you know it—you made me think you cared for me—and now you say it is all over," she thought. "Here is a little farewell gift, my beloved," for so Wayne had written, although not in those exact words—"a little remembrance to hang around your fair neck to remind you of the hours we spent together, of me . . ."

"Hello, is that you, Tommy?" Steena's voice, if her heart was bleeding, sounded as cool as usual, as determined. "I want you to come out tonight. Yes, it's very important. Yes, I have something to tell you. Yes, it's what you want to hear." So many yeses, but he would not give her time to explain, because she supposed he carried a bleeding heart as well as she. "Yes, Tibby's okay, she's fine. Yes, it's about her, in a way—about the plan I spoke of the last time. But I can't tell you over the wire, Tommy. You'll come? Suppose you meet me here, in the corner drug store, at 8 o'clock. She must see him before Tibby did, even for a moment. She must MAKE him do what she wanted, carry through her plan.

She had to make him, she thought as she hung up. That would be the only possible way out now, the only means to mend her heart.

Today's Horoscope

You are alert, warm-hearted and level-headed, if your birthday is today. You have good business sense, and your tastes are refined and practical. You take great pride in your home. The first half of the next year is more propitious for you than the latter half, promising unforeseen gain of a secret nature, and much activity. Later, you should safeguard your health. A complex character will be possessed by the child who is born on this date. He or she will be observant and a keen critic, but somewhat satirical and inclined to jealousy and quick to take offense.

3. Petroleum.

Freight car loadings for the week ended November 1 totaled 894,739 cars, an increase of 12.6 percent over the corresponding week one year ago.

Great lakes shipments of iron ore during October totaled 9,596,064 gross tons, slightly less than for September 1941 and October of 1940.

STARS SAY—

For Friday, May 29

EXCITEMENT, high pressure tactics and tempo may be looked for this day, judging by a very stimulating series of planetary aspects. This applies to all affairs, particularly large and important projects working in connection with public, community, fraternal and political activities as well as in co-operation with major corporations of a semi-private nature. While great progress and productivity are indicated, yet there is a retarding as well as a peculiar or surprising development to be rigorously dealt with, by decisive acts.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much tension and stress, with the energies under high pressure and moving under enforced tempo in the direction of high places or objectives. This is probably in connection with public, group or fraternal interests, whose support is assured. But there may be certain erratic or peculiar situations, which may prove minor setbacks.

A child born on this day should be energetic, ambitious and public spirited, with practical versatility and constructive ability, although having some eccentricities.

High Street Pupils Have Novel Party

High street school pupils and teachers observed the annual close-of-school celebration Thursday at a victory party. A feature of the affair were the scrap dresses worn by the sixth grade girls, the material being secured by raids on the family scrap bags. Pieced together in patch-work quilt patterns, the project furnished interesting and useful work for the girls.

Not to be outdone, the boys wore scrap shirts and ragged outfits.

Colored chalk drawings of patriotic scenes were on the black boards about the rooms.

Novel patriotic hats of red, white and blue were made and worn by fifth grade pupils. Favors for the table appointments were made by pupils of the fourth grade. The third grade demonstrated Victory kites made during an art period.

The boys were winners in the Defense stamp contest, having purchased $25.55 worth of stamps to the $23 worth bought by the girls. The winning side was furnished their share of refreshments by the losers.

First and second grade pupils made colorful hats and favors which were used during the affair. A circus scene decorated the walls of the first grade room.

Musical selections, poems, stories and instrumental solos were included in the patriotic program. Games and stunts were enjoyed also by the group.

Children having perfect attendance records for the year were given recognition at the victory party. The group included Frances Groom, Rosemary Stonerock, Norma Lockard, Bessie Brown, William Tootle and Robert Radcliff.

Light refreshments were served at the close of the affair, the tables being on the lawn.

Guests and teachers participating in the affair were Mrs. Emerson Downing, Miss Marjorie Vorhees, Miss Polly Briggs, Miss Eloise Hilyard, Mrs. Dwight Well, Miss Ethel Noggle, Mrs. Elizabeth Ward and Miss Sophia Parks.

Andre Kostelanetz will present the world radio premiere of Jerome Kern's "Portrait for Orchestra of Mark Twain," on his "Pause That Refreshes" program Sunday, June 7, at 4:30 p. m. over the Columbia network. This composition is one of four commissioned by noted American composers, including Aaron Copland, Virgil Thomson and Kern, for performance during Kostelanetz's Summer concert appearances. It proved so sensational a success when first played for a concert audience in Cincinnati that Kostelanetz decided to give the opus its radio premiere on June 7. The work is divided into four parts: "Hannibal Days," "The Gorgeous Pilot House," "Wanderings Westward" and "Mark in Eruption."

High Street Pupils Have Novel Party

High street school pupils and teachers observed the annual close-of-school celebration Thursday at a Victory party. A feature of the affair were the scrap dresses worn by the sixth grade girls, the material being secured by raids on the family scrap bags. Piled together in patch-work quilt patterns, the project furnished interesting and useful work for the girls.

Not to be outdone, the boys wore scrap shirts and ragged outfits. Colored chalk drawings of patriotic scenes were on the black boards about the rooms.

Novel patriotic hats of red, white and blue were made and worn by fifth grade pupils. Favors for the table appointments were made by pupils of the fourth grade. The third grade demonstrated Victory kites made during an Art project.

The boys were winners in the Defense stamp contest, having purchased $25.55 worth of stamps to the $23 worth bought by the girls. The winning side was furnished their share of refreshments by the losers.

First and second grade pupils made colorful hats and favors which were used during the affair. A circus scene decorated the walls of the first grade room.

Musical selections, poems, stories and instrumental solos were included in the patriotic program. Games and stunts were enjoyed also by the group.

Children having perfect attendance records for the year were given recognition at the Victory party. The group included Frances Groom, Rosemary Stonerock, Norma Lockard, Bessie Brown, William Tootle and Robert Radcliff.

Light refreshments were served at the close of the affair, the tables being on the lawn.

Guests and teachers participating in the affair were Mrs. Emerson Downing, Miss Marjorie Vorhees, Miss Polly Briggs, Miss Eloise Hilyard, Mrs. Dwight Weiler, Miss Ethel Noggle, Mrs. Elizabeth Ward and Miss Sophia Parks.

Business Women's Club

Miss Rose Good and Mrs. Paul Kirwin, delegates to the state convention of Business and Professional Women's clubs held recently in Cleveland, gave excellent reports at the Thursday meeting of the Circleville club in the club rooms, Masonic temple. Items mentioned included the Saturday luncheon address, "Fit for Freedom", by Dorothea Campbell, National chairman of public affairs; the banquet in the ball room of Hotel Cleveland with Miss Olive Huston, State president, presiding and the address, "After Victory, What?", by Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade; installation of officers and the address, "Women and Freedom", by Frances P. Bolton, member of congress.

Mrs. Joe Work, president, conducted the business session which followed the delightful dinner served at 6 p. m. Eighteen members were present.

Final plans were made for the Girl-Graduate banquet, June 2, in the parish house of St. Philip's church.

It was announced that the next regular meeting would be June 11, the session beginning at 8 p. m. with the usual dinner omitted.

Bridge Club

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marshall of near Stoutsville entertained members of their bridge club Thursday.

High score favors in the games were won by Mrs. Eugene Barthelmas and Nelson Warner. Light refreshments were served.

Present for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Riegel, Mr. and Mrs. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Barthelmas and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.

O. E. S.

Mrs. William Cady and Mrs. John Magill will take local reservations for the Eastern Star inspection dinner, June 5, in Masonic temple. Out-of-town reservations are in charge of Mrs. E. L. Price.

St. Paul Aid

Ladies' Aid society of St. Paul Evangelical church of Washington township held its annual memorial service for deceased members Thursday at the home of Mrs. Walter Leist, Washington township. The Rev. Harold Dutt of Stoutsville conducted the impressive service.

During the pleasant social hour, Mrs. Leist served lunch to the 21 members present.

Nebraska Grange

Nebraska grange will have its regular meeting Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. in the grange hall.

Dreisbach-Menke

Announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss Patricia Menke, 699 Seymour avenue, Columbus, to Mr. Charles Dreisbach, 1763 East Main street, of that city. They plan to be married Saturday.

Mr. Dreisbach is manager of the Tower restaurant, Columbus, where they will reside. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Dreisbach of Williamsport.

Art Sewing Club

Mrs. Fred Newhouse of East Main street will entertain the Art Sewing club Wednesday at 2 p. m. at her home.

Defense Course

Mrs. Blanche Mutschman of West Water street, local First Aid instructor, completed a Civilian Defense Medical Corps basic training course Thursday evening in Memorial Hall, Columbus. The school was sponsored by the Franklin county chapter of the American Red Cross and by the Civilian Defense council of Franklin county.

The course included general directions for the operation of all

KOSTELANETZ

Andre Kostelanetz will present the world radio premiere of Jerome Kern's "Portrait for Orchestra" of Mark Twain, on his "Pause That Refreshes" program Sunday, June 7, at 4:30 p. m. over the Columbia network. This composition is one of four commissioned by Kostelanetz, all written at his behest by noted American composers, including Aaron Copland, Virgil Thomson and Kern, for performance during Kostelanetz's Summer concert appearances. It proved so sensational a success when first played for a concert audience in Cincinnati that Kostelanetz decided to give the opus its radio premiere on June 7. The work is divided into four parts: "Hannibal Days," "The Gorgeous Pilot House," "Wanderings Westward" and "Mark in Eruption."

DINAH SHORE

Dinah Shore will sing one of the most sparkling new tunes of the day when she features "Conchita" on her Friday broadcast, May 29, at 9:30 p. m., over the Blue network. Other songs on community. They have just returned to Ohio after spending 18 months in Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. Fred Brunner and Mrs. Meeker Terwilliger

of Circleville were Wednesday visitors of friends in Dayton.

Mrs. E. J. Lilly

has returned to her home on East Union street after a visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon S. Lilly, and family of Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of Columbus visited Thursday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wilson, East Union street.

Theodore Kirkendall and sister

Mrs. George Haswell, former residents of Circleville, are visiting friends and relatives in the com-the airings are "One Dozen Roses," the popular "Skylark" and one of Dinah's own favorites, "Love Me Or Leave Me." Gordon Jenkins' instrumental number will be "Ragging the Scale." This program will be recorded and sent to U. S. military camps all over the world.

STREET SINGER

Arthur Tracy, "The Street Singer," and Alan Ladd, new Hollywood star hailed for his current film, "This Gun for Hire," will be guest stars on the Blue Barron Show for the Federal Security agency on Sunday, May 31, at 2:30 p. m., over the blue network. Tracy, who recently returned to radio after ten years of retirement, will feature some of the songs that made him famous. Ladd will offer Lincoln's Gettysburg address, as a Memorial Day feature. Both guests will be heard from New York, while Barron and his orchestra, spotlighting Vocalists Jimmy Brown, Clyde Burke, Billy Cover and the Three Blue Notes, will air from Cleveland, where they're playing for a week at the Palace theatre.

FATHER FLANAGAN

Father Flanagan, founder of Boys' Town, makes a third appearance on Horace Heidt's "Treasure Chest" program, when he appears as Heidt's special guest on the broadcast to be heard on Tuesday, June 2, at 8:30 p. m., over the NBC-Red network. Also to be heard on the program are men from the nation's armed services, and from war production factories. Musically, the program features Donna and her Don Juans in "Who Wouldn't Love You"; "Idaho," played by the orchestra; Gordon MacCrae, singing "Miss You"; "Oh Ma Ma," told as a novel musical story; and "Fighting sons in Navy Blue," featuring Fred Lowery, whistler, and the ensemble.

A Navy poster makes the excellent suggestion that the mouths of loose talkers be closed for the duration.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be more than just a nasty habit! It may be a sign of worms. Yes, ugly crawling roundworms inside your child! Other warning signs are fidgeting, "flicky" appetite, crankiness, itching in certain parts. These bowel worms can cause real trouble! If you suspect your child has them, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! JAYNE'S is America's leading proprietary worm medicine; scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. It expels stubborn worms, yet acts very gently. If no worms are there, JAYNE'S works merely as a mild laxative. Be sure you get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE!

Your VACUUM CLEANER

Helpful Hints on the Use and Care of Your Vacuum Cleaner

1. Empty the cleaner bag after each use. This is important as dirt in the bag will cut down your cleaner's efficiency.
2. Do not wash the bag. It should occasionally be cleaned with a brush or beaten. When it becomes very dirty, it should be replaced.
3. Never remove the cleaner cord from the socket by jerking on the cord. When not in use, the cord should be wound loosely around the hooks on the handle, avoiding sharp bends.
4. If yours is a motor-driven brush-type cleaner, inspect the rubber belt often. As rubber stretches and loses its elasticity, the belt should be replaced when it becomes slack. The cleaner's increased efficiency is well worth the cost of a new belt.
5. Check the nozzle adjustment. It should be the thickness of a half-dollar from the floor covering before the machine is turned on. This allows the carpet to be raised in a slight arc into the nozzle which in turn opens the nap or pile.

ASHVILLE

The regular May meeting of the Community club will be held at 8 p. m. this Friday in the club room. In addition to the Fourth of July planning, several other problems will be for discussion. It is highly important that the club members be present, so says Ed Irwin, secretary. And in line of announcements, you yet have time to get a canning sugar permit of the rationing sugar board located at the council house. Nine o'clock, last call.

What is known as the old Messick barn, there along the alley near the Lutheran church, is being razed and much of the good lumber salvaged from the structure, will be used in the framework of the new modern dwelling. Mrs. Beatrice Schiff is erecting on East street near the park. And another new dwelling that has had no mention yet, is that of John Dowler located over on route 23 south of South Bloomfield. It is a five-room cottage, modern in every detail, with Builder Joe Thomas and his force of workers in charge. Willard Barch and force are building the Mrs. Schiff dwelling. Over on Jefferson avenue William Wheeler has his home dwelling well on the way toward completion. Charles Pettibone has made a good start toward having a new dwelling of his own located in East Lawn addition and bordering the township road. All favorable, we'll be getting out there today to see what's being going on and what is to do about it.

Plenty action at the cannery the last few days unloading cars of new cans for the bumper pea crop that will be ready for packing now in short order.

M. M. Hott with his helper force has been busy for the last few weeks making shipments of flower orders to the larger up state cities. Too, plenty orders now on the home front, Memorial Day work.

Robert Kirkpatrick, the former manager of the Scioto grain elevator plant here, and now a part of the soldier outfit at Fort Benning, Georgia, was here yesterday, being home on a short furlough. He was accompanied by his father, a resident of New Holland.

Rev. Harbaugh told us yesterday that Mrs. Harbaugh in White Cross hospital recovering from an operation, is "getting along fine."

A delightful time was had by eighteen of the small friends of Larry Baker, son of Josephine Good Baker on the occasion of his fourth birthday, May 28. He received many nice gifts. The games and refreshments were held on the lawn of the grandparents, John and Mrs. Good. Those present were Ned and Fern Dennis, Don Hedges, Larry Campbell, Dianne Nance, Ned Rader, Kay Bozeman, Ethel May Hedges, Connie Courtright, Mary Lou Cloud, Loy Six, Ellen Essick, Eddie Leatherwood, Bobbie Cloud, Larry Cameron, Dickie Brown, Charles Trone, Nancy Miller, and Mrs. G. ROBINSON HURTS HAND BUT WINS OVER GAME LAD

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 29—Ray Robinson today was nursing an injured left hand he suffered last night in pounding out a ten round decision over game little Marty Servo in Madison Square garden and, as a result, the hard punching Harlem welterweight may be forced to rest for several weeks.

The victory was Robinson's 32nd straight as a professional, without loss, and he was scheduled to meet Garvey Young, of the Marines, on June 11. Young recently defeated Freddie Cochrane, the welterweight champion who now is serving in the Navy. The winner of the Robinson-Young bout then was scheduled to face Young Kid McCoy, now in the Army in a 15-round bout on July 16.

Final winner of the 147-pound round-robin will be declared welterweight champion ad interim. Cochrane, who won the title from Fritz Zivic last May, will not be forced to lay his crown on the line until after the duration, unless he wishes to do so.

PGA TOURNEY AT CRUCIAL STAGE; CHOICES PICKED

By LAWTON CARVER
SEAVIEW COUNTRY CLUB, Atlantic City, N. J., May 29—As the quarter-finalists tangled up today at 36 holes, tomorrow's semi-finals in the National Professional golf championship seemed to be virtually ordained encounters between Craig Wood, the National Open champion, and Sam Snead, the well-known threat, on one hand and Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan, the Texan, on the other.

Today's matches brought the survivors of second rounds together as follows:

Wood vs. Jimmy Demaret, of Texas and Detroit.

Snead vs. Ed Dudley, the P.G.A. president now playing out of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Nelson vs. Light Horse Harry Cooper, in Minneapolis, the medalist.

Hogan vs. Corp. Jim Turnesa, of Fort Dix.

On the basis of play to date Wood, Snead, Nelson and Hogan had to be favored in today's matches, with Demaret given a very good chance of upsetting the form in his match with Wood. It will take something like a miracle to deprive Snead, Nelson and Hogan of wins.

Snead yesterday scored one of the day's two most one-sided triumphs in the second round by disposing of Willie Groggin, of White Plains, N. Y., 9 and 8, largely because Groggin's putter wasn't working.

Hogan manufactured the other victory by such wide proportions in beating Ky Laffoon, of Miami, Okla., by the same margin.

Wood beat Leland Gibson, the Kansas City Mo., bushy-haired guy, 7 and 6, after trailing early in the match, while Nelson downed the veteran Joe Kirkwood, 2 and 1, Demaret beat Tommy Harmon, of Montclair, N. J., 3 and 2, Dudley won from Tony Penna, 4 and 2, Cooper took care of Lloyd Mangrum, 1 up and Turnesa won three of his last five holes to come from two down to 1 up over Jug McSpaden, of Philadelphia.

BEULAH PARK MOVES UP TWILIGHT STARTING TIME

COLUMBUS, May 29—The starting time for today's twilight races at nearby Beulah Park was moved up to 3:30 p. m. today so the horses wouldn't have to race against time in addition to each other.

A state law prohibits twilight racing after 7 p. m., and so Franklin County Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky warned officials of the track yesterday that he would take action against them if the law was violated.

President Robert J. Dienst of the jockey club stepped things up a bit shortly before post time yesterday. The first race started at 4:10 p. m. instead of the scheduled 4:15 and the time between the last two races was only about 23 minutes, instead of the customary 30.

The off-time in that eighth and last race was 6:59, one minute to spare.

New York Tested By Knott, But Gordon's Blow Does It; Redlegs Edged

By International News Service
"Name your own type game and we'll beat you at it," was the new theme song of the New York Yankees today. The American league champions shifted from power to persistence and finesse yesterday in whipping the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 2.

Jack Knott of the A's had out-pitched Hank Borowy until the ninth. Then he made the mistake of walking Tommy Henrich and Joe DiMaggio. If this was not error enough, he followed by allowing Killer Keller to bunt safely. Knott realized his error when he saw Joe Gordon striding toward the plate, swishing his heavy bat around in the pleasant-for Yankees-afternoon air.

Gordon took a toe hold, then cracked a single that sewed up another game for the McCarthy-men. Despite being beaten, Knott allowed only six hits to nine by Borowy. But, brother, when you have those Yankees on your side, that's enough.

Virgil Trucks unleashed some fancy, four-hit flinging to give the Detroit Tigers a 6 to 2 victory over the staggering Cleveland Indians. Pinky Higgins' double with the bases jammed in the fifth scored the Tigers' final three runs. Al Milnar was the victim of the Detroit assault.

Earl Wynn, who had been knocked out from the box in his last four starts, staged a brilliant comeback as he pitched and batted the Washington Senators to a 5 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox in a night game. Wynn, whose last victory was scored on May 5, allowed the Sox seven scattered hits and batted in three of the runs himself with a pair of singles.

The St. Louis Browns flattened the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 4, in another night game. Rick Ferrell's double with two mates aboard in the big eighth when the Browns pushed over four tallies clinched the win for the Sewell-men.

Bill Lee's Fly Wins

In the National league, big Bill Lee took no chances on missing his seventh victory for Chicago. The hefty moundsman belted a long fly in the twelfth to give the Cubs a 2 to 1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

The swashbuckling Brooklyn Dodgers continued to bully the Boston Braves, slapping the Stengelmans, 6 to 4, for their sixth straight victory over the Braves this year. The league leaders scored all their runs off Tom Earley, starting Boston pitcher, in the first six innings. Meanwhile, Kirby Higbe was holding the Beantowners to one lone hit. The Bostonians finally broke loose in the eighth, scoring one run, and then adding three in the ninth, with the aid of a Max West homer. The tying run was on base when the game ended.

A pinch single by Frank Crespi in the eleventh inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3 to 2 win last night over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Ken Heintzelman, who has long been a nemesis to the Cards, again hurled a masterful game and the two runs St. Louis tallied in the fourth were the first runs Bill Southworth's men have been able to score off the Pirates' left-hander in 30 innings. Beazley was credited with the win.

DENNY SHUTE TO ENTER CHARITY GOLF EXHIBITION

COLUMBUS, May 29—Denny Shute, one of golfdom's famous "play for pay" linksters, will return to the scene of his earlier triumphs next week, and as a "housewarming" or "reacquainting" measure, will play an exhibition match Tuesday afternoon, June 3, at Scioto Country Club. The exhibition will be a 100 percent charity affair with proceeds going to the Children's Hospital. Included in the exhibition will be three other Columbus golfers, as yet not named.

The regular May meeting of the Community club will be held at 8 p. m. this Friday in the club room. In addition to the Fourth of July planning, several other problems will be for discussion. It is highly important that the club members be present, so says Ed Irwin, secretary. And in line of announcements, you yet have time to get a canning sugar permit of the rationing sugar board located at the council house. Nine o'clock, last call.

What is known as the old Messick barn, there along the alley near the Lutheran church, is being razed and much of the good lumber salvaged from the structure, will be used in the framework of the new modern dwelling. Mrs. Beatrice Schiff is erecting on East street near the park. And another new dwelling that has had no mention yet, is that of John Dowler located over on route 23 south of South Bloomfield. It is a five-room cottage, modern in every detail, with Builder Joe Thomas and his force of workers in charge. Willard Barch and force are building the Mrs. Schiff dwelling. Over on Jefferson avenue William Wheeler has his home dwelling well on the way toward completion. Charles Pettibone has made a good start toward having a new dwelling of his own located in East Lawn addition and bordering the township road. All favorable, we'll be getting out there today to see what's been going on and what is to do about it.

ROBINSON HURTS HAND BUT WINS OVER GAME LAD

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 29—Ray Robinson today was nursing an injured left hand he suffered last night in pounding out a ten round decision over game little Marty Servo in Madison Square garden and, as a result, the hard punching Harlem welterweight may be forced to rest for several weeks.

The victory was Robinson's 32nd straight as a professional, without loss, and he was scheduled to meet Garvey Young, of the Marines, on June 11. Young recently defeated Freddie Cochrane, the welterweight champion who now is serving in the Navy. The winner of the Robinson-Young bout then was scheduled to face Young Kid McCoy, now in the Army in a 15-round bout on July 16.

Final winner of the 147-pound round-robin will be declared welterweight champion ad interim. Cochrane, who won the title from Fritz Zivic last May, will not be forced to lay his crown on the line until after the duration, unless he wishes to do so.

PGA TOURNEY AT CRUCIAL STAGE; CHOICES PICKED

By LAWTON CARVER
SEAVIEW COUNTRY CLUB, Atlantic City, N. J., May 29 — As the quarter-finals tangled up today at 36 holes, tomorrow's semi-finals in the National Professional golf championship seemed to be virtually ordained encounters between Craig Wood, the National Open champion, and Sam Snead, the well-known threat, on one hand and Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan, the Texan, on the other.

Today's matches brought the survivors of second rounds together as follows:
Wood vs. Jimmy Demaret, of Texas and Detroit.
Snead vs. Ed Dudley, the P.G.A. president now playing out of Colorado Springs, Colo.
Nelson vs. Light Horse Harry Cooper, in Minneapolis, the medalist.

Hogan vs. Corp. Jim Turnesa, of Fort Dix.
On the basis of play to date Wood, Snead, Nelson and Hogan had to be favored in today's matches, with Demaret given a very good chance of upsetting the form in his match with Wood. It will take something like a miracle to deprive Snead, Nelson and Hogan of wins.

The league leaders scored all their runs off Tom Earley, starting Boston pitcher, in the first six innings. Meanwhile, Kirby Higbe was holding the Beantowners to one lone hit. The Bostonians finally broke loose in the eighth, scoring one run, and then adding three in the ninth, with the aid of a Max West homer. The tying run was on base when the game ended.

A pinch single by Frank Crespi in the eleventh inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3 to 2 win last night over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Ken Heintzelman, who has long been a nemesis to the Cards, again hurled a masterful game and the two runs St. Louis tallied in the fourth were the first runs Bill Southworth's men have been able to score off the Pirates' left-hander in 30 innings. Beazley was credited with the win.

DENNY SHUTE TO ENTER CHARITY GOLF EXHIBITION

COLUMBUS, May 29 — Denny Shute, one of golfdom's famous "play for pay" linksters, will return to the scene of his earlier triumphs next week, and as a "housewarming" or "reacquainting" measure, will play an exhibition match Tuesday afternoon, June 3, at Scioto Country Club. The exhibition will be a 100 percent charity affair with proceeds going to the Children's Hospital. Included in the exhibition will be three other Columbus golfers, as yet not named.

Need for More Patrolmen Stressed By City's Chief of Police.

M'CRADY SAYS FORCE IS NOT LARGE ENOUGH

At Least Three Men Should Be Added To Provide Needed Protection

ROBBERIES ARE CITED

Night Cruiser Might Have Brought About Arrest Of Culprits

Police Chief William F. McCrady declared Friday that his department cannot give the city of Circleville proper police protection with its present number of men.

McCrady restated his need for three more patrolmen to round out his staff of officers. The urgent need of this addition to the force was brought to the front once more with Wednesday evening's series of garage entering. No additional robberies were reported Thursday night.

At present, the local department is comprised of the chief and five patrolmen. With recent state laws governing the number of weekly hours a patrolman can work, the efficiency of the group has been made more difficult, according to McCrady.

"It is almost impossible to keep a man at the desk during the evening, much less keep an active patrol of the city's streets," he said.

The federal bureau of investigation has issued figures relative to the ratio of policemen in all size cities and according to this code Circleville should have a force of no less than 18 men.

McCrady went further to state:

"I appreciate the financial problem that our city faces at the present, but if there is any way possible, our force must be enlarged if the city is to be properly protected. With the city's lights out, scarcity of tires and other goods we can expect an increase in incidents similar to Wednesday evening during the Summer months."

In regard to the wave that struck Circleville night before last the police chief stated that had the local department been large enough to maintain a night cruiser there is every possibility that those responsible for the thefts would have been noticed by police, in as much as they operated

BURTON PLANS TOUR OF VITAL OHIO DISTRICTS

COLUMBUS, May 29—Courtney Burton, executive director of the state Defense Council, today began an inspection of defense councils in a number of eastern Ohio cities labeled by military authorities as potential air raid target areas.

Burton, accompanied by Major Charles S. Miller, Army liaison officer, said he expected to confer with local Defense Council officials at East Liverpool, Wellsburg, Steubenville, Mingo Junction, Brilliant, Martins Ferry, Bridgeport, Bellaire and Shady-side.

Explaining that many important industrial plants located at these points are vulnerable to attack, Burton said that he and Major Miller would follow the Ohio river, inspecting the control centers and Civilian Defense corps in each of the cities.

Draft Board Operation Outlined to Rotarians

Emmitt Crist, chairman of Pickaway county's Selective Service board, was featured in a discussion of the Draft Act and its operation given before Circleville's Rotarians Thursday at noon.

Mr. Crist spoke extensively in respect to the manner of classifying and inducting registrants. A board of five members is maintained to direct the draft activity with an advisory board of more than 50 members set up to aid registrants in filling out questionnaires.

Mr. Crist pointed out that the draft measure is by no means a popular one but he also said that "Too many people criticize the board without knowing what it's all about."

In explaining the action involved in the draft system the local chairman first pointed out the various classifications given different men. These included 1-A, men available for combat service; 1-B, men physically limited to non-combatant service; 2-A, men deferred for six months due to work in defense factories; 3-A, married or having dependents; 3-B, married and working in defense industries; 4-B, public officials; 4-D, ministers; 4-E, conscientious objectors; and 4-F, mentally or physically unfit.

Local boards have the determining power in placing the various registrants since different territories vary in interpretation of the dependency clause. Mr. Crist restated the intentions of the local group to disregard any dependencies created after September 16, 1940 and also the problem that local farmers create in respect to deferment. Farm wages are such that they attract young boys of the ages that are needed in the Army and every board is expected to induct farm hands in the future with the same discretion that is given city boys.

Under present war time conditions the draft board gets a call for so many men and this call or quota must be completely filled on the date of induction. At present the local board is using its supply of 1-A men and the next group to be reclassified will be those married men who have lately created dependencies.

Mr. Crist was pleasingly received by the club and his explanation of the draft board is a measure to help all persons understand its operation.

SALES TAX DATA SHOWS INCREASES IN DISTRICT

Figures released Friday noon the county treasurer's office showed a slight gain in sales tax receipts for the first three weeks of May as compared with the corresponding period of last year. For the three weeks ending May 23 the local sales amounted to $4,916.37 compared with $4,862.27 in 1941. The gain is minute but significant in as much as sales throughout the other areas of the state are dropping off drastically due to government restrictions on sale of numerous articles.

A Lovely Floral Tribute to the Parents of the First Born.

To Parents:

Your gift from the Herald as Father and Mother of the month's first baby is a free three month's subscription. May you enjoy the paper and profit from its pages.

The Circleville Herald

THE GRAND THEATRE

May we be the first to congratulate the parents of the first baby born in the month of June. To the lucky Mother and Father the Grand Theatre will give each a free pass to enjoy a Grand Picture at the Grand Theatre.

Guard Baby's Future With SAVINGS and DEFENSE BONDS!

Here's a golden opportunity to aid National Defense and insure your baby's future at the same time—buy Defense Bonds in his name! Upon maturity they will provide a nest egg for college and other needs. Start a savings account for him at the same time.

We will open a savings account with $1 for the First Baby.
